SHEFFIELD COUNCIL WINS PRESTIGIOUS COMMUNICATION AWARD FOR THIRD YEAR IN A ROW

Sheffield City Council is celebrating after winning the Working Together Award at the 2013/2014 Shine a Light Awards for their work delivering a city-wide literacy strategy to develop the speech, language and communication skills of children and young people aged 0-19.

The Every Sheffield Child Articulate and Literate (ESCAL) team were unveiled as the winners of the Working Together Award in recognition of their work with Sheffield's Speech and Language Therapist team to establish innovative speech and language practice across 15 primary schools in the Sheffield South East Learning Partnership (SSELP).

The Awards, held in London on Thursday 3rd April and hosted by Broadcaster and Health Campaigner, Anne Diamond, are run by Pearson Assessment in partnership with The Communication Trust to honour individuals, teams, campaigns, communication friendly settings and communities that have excelled in their support of children and young people's communication.

43 languages are spoken in SSELP schools and nearly 50% of pupils are eligible for pupil premium funding. The ESCAL strategy included a focus on equipping practitioners to meet the language needs of bilingual learners and valuing mother tongue where the percentage of children from Black and minority ethnic groups is double the national average.

SSELP schools have received a comprehensive toolkit of resources to support children and young people with speech, language and communication needs (SLCN) and mentoring on areas such as Autism and Down's Syndrome.

850 practitioners have attended training and four SSELP schools have gained ESCAL's externally validated Communication Friendly Schools Quality Mark. End of Key Stage data shows early signs of impact with a significant 9% rise over the year compared with 1% nationally.

SSELP schools have taken part in a range of activities and initiatives including a Mad Hatters Tea Party for nursery children, a 10 week creativity project for schools on speaking and listening and pupil participation in talk activities including ESCAL City Talks and debates in the Council Chamber at the Town Hall.

Anne Fox, Director of The Communication Trust and Shine a Light Award Judge, says: "Congratulations to the ESCAL team for winning this award introduced for the first time this year."

At a time where health and SEN services are going through significant reforms, ESCAL's success focuses attention on what can be achieved through commitment, joint working, a multi-disciplinary team and a great deal of energy. Their important work will help to motivate and inspire others."

Janet Cooper, Founder of Stoke Speaks Out and Shine a Light Judge, says: "The entries for the Working Together category were of a really high standard. Teams were able to demonstrate a genuine commitment to children through working together. Congratulations to ESCAL who have continued to keep SLCN high on the agenda in Sheffield despite these austere times."

"The ESCAL team was able to evidence significant impact on children's speech, language and communication through a joined up approach. There is still a huge need nationally to invest time and energy in supporting our children and young people to become skilful communicators and the Working Together award acknowledges the effort teams are making."
