OUTSTANDING HACKNEY COLLEGE HONOURED AT SHINE A LIGHT AWARDS FOR ITS COMMITMENT TO DEVELOPING CHILDREN’S COMMUNICATION

New Regent’s College Pupil Referral Unit (PRU) in Hackney, London, has been highly commended in the SEN School of the Year category at an awards ceremony in London for its continued commitment to developing its pupils’ communication skills. The 2017 Shine a Light Awards, run by Pearson in partnership with The Communication Trust, took place on 23rd March 2017 and were hosted by singer and theatre star Gareth Gates.

The 2017 Shine a Light Awards is a national awards scheme that celebrates innovative work and excellent practice in supporting children and young people’s communication development.

New Regent’s College PRU places a considerable emphasis upon identifying the underlying reasons that children struggle to communicate effectively and regulate their own emotions. Many of its students have social and emotional difficulties, finding it difficult to either understand what other people are saying or in being able to express themselves.

New Regent’s College PRU uses a wealth of language and communication resources designed to aid students to be able to voice their needs. All of the students access twice-weekly language and communication interventions, such as social skills group, LEGO therapy, and speaking and listening games that are designed to improve their overall communication skills with literacy and numeracy, especially for the younger students.

Katherine Gill, Head of Primary at New Regent’s College Pupil Referral Unit, said: “We are thrilled that the Shine a Light Awards have recognised our work at New Regent’s. We feel inspired to continue to guide our pupils to achieve their best.”

Gareth Gates, host of the 2016/17 Shine a Light Awards, said: “The dedication of New Regent’s College Pupil Referral Unit is outstanding. Being able to communicate with confidence is often taken for granted but for many it is an everyday struggle. I have found my stutter crippling at times but I have learnt ways to manage my difficulties with the support of others.

“It is heart-warming to know that children and young people across England are getting the support they need to develop and achieve goals that may not have been possible otherwise. New Regent’s College Pupil Referral Unit should be extremely proud of its award.”

New Regent’s College PRU uses a wide range of quantitative and qualitative assessments to accurately assess each child on entry, meaning that it is able to pinpoint the exact interventions that will be suitable for each individual child.

In addition to this, staff spend a considerable amount of time capturing the ‘voice of the child’ data so that they can understand what they are feeling, thinking and experiencing. They have found this to be an invaluable method of trying to enhance the understanding they have of each child.

Chris Hall, Director of Clinical Assessment at Pearson, said: “Congratulations to New Regent’s College Pupil Referral Unit for its achievement. Placing communication at the heart of its practice and developing bespoke communication packages, along with the range of interventions available is helping its children to progress immensely.

“This is the fifth year we have run the Awards and we remain blown away by the standard of applications. They give an amazing insight into the unsung work that is taking place across the country to improve the speech, language and communication skills of children and young people.”

Octavia Holland, Director of The Communication Trust, said: “Congratulations to New Regent’s College Pupil Referral Unit and everyone who triumphed at the Shine a Light Awards. They have shown what can be achieved when expertise, enthusiasm and dedication is given to children and young people who struggle to communicate. These Awards highlight the very best practice that is taking place in settings across the country. We would like to say a huge thank you to Pearson for their long-standing support.”
