OUTSTANDING LAMBETH PRIMARY SCHOOL HONOURED AT SHINE A LIGHT AWARDS FOR ITS COMMITMENT TO DEVELOPING CHILDREN'S COMMUNICATION

Woodmansterne Primary School in Lambeth has been highly commended in the Communication Commitment Award category at an awards ceremony in London for its continued commitment to developing its pupils' communication skills. The 2017 Shine a Light Awards, run by Pearson in partnership with The Communication Trust, took place on 23rd March 2017 and were hosted by singer and theatre star Gareth Gates.

The 2017 Shine a Light Awards is a national awards scheme that celebrates innovative work and excellent practice in supporting children and young people's communication development.

Woodmansterne Primary School prides itself on providing an inclusive and communication-friendly environment in order to support its children's language development. It has its own private speech and language therapist who comes weekly and provides training and support to all staff members, as well as whole-school insets.

The early-years team have all taken the two-day speech and language training course provided by Lambeth speech and language therapy (SALT) service and have two higher-level teaching assistants to run small groups and one-on-one speech and language sessions based on targets set by their speech and language therapist.

For any new staff, the senior leadership team ensures that they have the opportunity to take part in the Lambeth SALT services training and are supported by the school's special educational needs co-ordinator (SENCo) as well as from outside professionals including the school's educational psychologist, Autism outreach worker and speech and language therapist.

Claire Morris and Sharon Remikie, higher level teaching assistants at Woodmansterne Primary School said: "It is wonderful to receive recognition for doing a job that we love! The Shine a Light Awards represented a great day for celebrating the successes of speech, language and communication practitioners from far and wide."

Gareth Gates, host of the 2017 Shine a Light Awards, said: "The dedication of Woodmansterne Primary School is outstanding. Being able to communicate with confidence is often taken for granted but for many it is an everyday struggle. I have found my stutter crippling at times but I have learnt ways to manage my difficulties with the support of others."

“It is heart-warming to know that other children and young people across England are getting the support they need to develop and achieve goals that may not have been possible otherwise. Woodmansterne Primary School should be extremely proud of its award.”

In addition to the incredible staff training, the school has also paid for additional sessions from the Lambeth educational psychologist team to help support a larger number of children; the senior leadership team completes termly ‘book looks’ to ensure that work is clearly differentiated and supports all children’s needs; and every half term inclusion walks are carried out to ensure that the whole school is supporting an inclusive and communication-friendly environment.

The school also ensures that visual timetables are used in every classroom, parent workshops are provided and frequent parent drop-in sessions are available with the SENCo and speech and language therapist.

Chris Hall, Director of Clinical Assessment at Pearson, said: “Congratulations to Woodmansterne Primary School for its highly commended achievement. Its innovative strategies, dedication to staff training, the use of external specialists and inclusion of parents shows a school that is leading by example.

“This is the fifth year we have run the Awards and we remain blown away by the standard of applications. They give an amazing insight into the unsung work that is taking place across the country to improve the speech, language and communication skills of children and young people.”

Octavia Holland, Director of The Communication Trust, said: “Congratulations to Woodmansterne Primary School and everyone who triumphed at the Shine a Light Awards. They have shown what can be achieved when expertise, enthusiasm and dedication is given to children and young people who struggle to communicate. These Awards highlight the very best practice that is taking place in settings across the country. We would like to say a huge thank you to Pearson for their long-standing support.”
