OUTSTANDING CHILDREN’S HOUSE NURSERY SCHOOL HONOURED AT SHINE A LIGHT AWARDS FOR ITS COMMITMENT TO DEVELOPING CHILDREN’S COMMUNICATION

Children’s House Nursery School in Tower Hamlets has won the Early Years Setting of the Year Award at an awards ceremony in London for its continued commitment to developing children’s communication skills. The 2018 Shine a Light Awards, run by learning company Pearson in partnership with The Communication Trust, took place on 22nd March 2018 and were hosted by stand-up comedian, actor and TV writer, Adam Hess.

The 2018 Shine a Light Awards is a national awards scheme that celebrates innovative work and excellent practice in supporting children and young people’s communication development. 17 individuals and teams across 10 award categories were recognised, as well as children and young people with speech, language and communication needs (SLCN).

Located within an area of high deprivation, over 90% of children at Children’s House Nursery School start with significant speech and language delays. Remarkably, by the time they move on to primary school, these same children leave with the levels of skill expected for their age.

The school’s head teacher, Chris Lewis, believes this is due to her staff’s dedication to parental engagement and the implementation of the National Literacy Trust’s initiative Early Words Together. School staff work closely with parent volunteers and volunteers from business and industry to raise achievement in language, communication and literacy.

Through working in partnership with families, staff and volunteers inspire and motivate parents to improve the home learning environment because parents can make all the difference to their child’s communication skills. Increasing parental awareness of the importance of early language makes a huge difference, families feel empowered to support their child’s communication and early literacy.

Before they even start at nursery staff identify any specific needs that children may have with special ‘Stay, Play and Learn’ sessions, following which a programme of support is implemented. Parents of children on the nursery’s waiting list are also given the opportunity to attend informative courses, which emphasise the importance of talking, reading and playing with children at home.

It is testament to the nursery’s excellent reputation that local children’s centres, health visitors and speech and language therapists (SLTs) regularly make direct referrals to Children’s House.

Guthsna Khan, Deputy Head at Children’s House Nursery School, said: “We are honoured to accept this award on behalf of our whole school community, everyone works together to support children’s communication. This award is testimony to the power of parental engagement.”

Stand-up comedian and actor, Adam Hess, host of the 2018 Shine a Light Awards, said: “The dedication of Children’s House Nursery School is outstanding. As a child, I struggled greatly with dyslexia and an immense fear of public speaking, if it wasn’t for the support I received when I was younger I wouldn’t be in the position I am today.

“It is fantastic to know that other children and young people are being given the support they need to learn, thrive and make friends Children’s House Nursery should be very proud of its award.”

Sharon Hague, Senior Vice President, Schools, Pearson said: “Our warmest congratulations to Children’s House Nursery School. Through our innovative clinical assessments, Pearson is committed to supporting those working to help people overcome challenges in speech and language. For six years we have run these awards as we believe it is so important to recognise and celebrate the incredible, but often unsung, work being done across the country to change the lives of children and young people by helping them to develop their communications skills.”

Octavia Holland, Director of The Communication Trust, said: “Congratulations to Children’s House Nursery School and everyone who triumphed at the 2018 Shine a Light Awards. They have shown what can be achieved when expertise, enthusiasm and dedication is given to children and young people who struggle to communicate. These awards highlight the very best practice that is taking place in settings across the country.”

The Shine a Light Awards have grown in popularity since their launch during the National Year of Communication in 2011 (known as the Hello campaign). To date, the awards have celebrated the work of over 120 teams and a wide range of individuals, including young people with severe and complex speech, language and communication needs (SLCN).
